49. The Council expressed its gratitude to the National Audit Office of the United Kingdom for acting as External Auditor of the UPOV accounts.

Procedure for the appointment of the External Auditor

50. The Council considered document C/58/14.

51. The Council recalled that

- (a) the WIPO General Assembly held its Sixty-Fourth (64th ordinary) Session in Geneva from July 6 to 14, 2023, and “appointed the Audit Board of Indonesia as the WIPO External Auditor for a period of six years to begin on January 1, 2024”;
- (b) the Council, at its fifty-seventh ordinary session, held in Geneva, on October 27, 2023, designated Switzerland, with its agreement, as External Auditor of UPOV, for one year, starting from January 2024 to December 2024;
- (c) the Council further noted that all members of the Union would be part of future consultations for a proposal for the appointment of the External Auditor for UPOV.

52. Due to the extraordinary and exceptional circumstances that, no Auditor General (or official holding the equivalent title) of UPOV member States that were consulted expressed an interest to audit the UPOV accounts starting calendar year 2025 until 2029, the Council agreed on the following way forward:

1. Subject to the agreement of the Audit Board of Indonesia, the Council designates the Audit Board of Indonesia as the UPOV External Auditor to audit the UPOV accounts for the calendar years 2025-2029.
2. The Council requests the Office of the Union to inform the Audit Board of Indonesia of the decision of the Council, in paragraph 1 above, and invite the Audit Board of Indonesia to consider the above designation.
3. If the Audit Board of Indonesia agrees to the designation, the Office of the Union to notify the Council accordingly.
4. The process of designating the UPOV External Auditor is of an administrative nature and does not relate to the substantive provisions on plant breeders’ rights set out in the 1991 Act and the 1978 Act of the UPOV Convention. Therefore, the Council considers that designating the UPOV External Auditor from a State not a member of UPOV, but a State member of WIPO, is an exceptional ad hoc decision which will in no manner set a precedent for future decisions to be taken by the Council.
5. On the above basis, the Council requests that the Office of the Union proposes possible amendments to the provisions in the UPOV Financial Regulations and Rules (document UPOV/INF/4/6) relating to the appointment of the External Auditor for consideration of the Council in its session in October 2025.
6. This exceptional decision is taken to ensure the efficient functioning of UPOV (Article 26 (5)(x) of the 1991 Act and Article 21(h) of the 1978 Act of the Convention).

Arrears in contributions as of September 30, 2024

OPENING REMARKS OF MR. DAREN TANG, SECRETARY-GENERAL,
AT THE FIFTY-EIGHTH ORDINARY SESSION OF THE COUNCIL

President Yehan Cui,
Excellencies,
Distinguished Delegates,

2023 was the warmest year on record. Greenhouse gas levels reached new highs. Ocean heat broke new records, sea levels continued to rise, and glaciers continued to retreat.

At the same time, more than 860 million people are experiencing severe food insecurity. In Africa, nearly 60% of the population is either moderately or severely food insecure.

These are troubling times, but this is not a time for despair. Instead, what we need is to roll up our sleeves to support agricultural innovation so that human ingenuity, invention and dynamism can help us address our many challenges.

There is already some cause for optimism.

A recent survey of seed industry experts found that 9 in 10 believe we will continue to develop more resilient and productive crops.

At the broader picture, according to WIPO's latest World IP Report, intellectual property applications related to agricultural innovation surged from 36,000 in 2008 to 136,000 in 2021.

Closer home, we see a similar increase in PVP filings.

Filings have grown by 80% over the past eight years with now close to 200,000 titles in force. Filings grew by 7% last year, with nearly 29,000 filings recorded. This is the highest growth rate of all IP filings.

China remains the most significant driver, with filings up a further 25% last year. But it's not the only growth engine. Economies as diverse as Kenya, the Republic of Korea, Nicaragua, the Netherlands, Poland, South Africa and Viet Nam also saw double-digit growth last year.

These developments highlight that more breeders – of all sizes and in all locations – are turning to PVP to unlock innovation, boost productivity, and support economic and social progress.

Today, I want to emphasize how UPOV, under its new leadership, is upholding a plant variety protection system that fosters innovation, drives investment, and supports a more sustainable future.

I will focus on the three pillars of UPOV's Strategic Business Plan – uniting stakeholders, awareness and assistance, and service provision.

Pillar 1 highlights UPOV's role as a convenor of members and stakeholders – efforts that are growing in importance as the use of the UPOV System expands around the world. Recently, we welcomed Armenia as UPOV's 79th member and have important agenda items today regarding the accession procedures of Laos PDR and the United Arab Emirates.

With the increase in members and filings, the importance of the work of this Council, and of our committees and working groups will only grow.

The work of UPOV should also be seen in its broader, international context, and especially in its strong connection with global development goals.

With agriculture touching on all but 2 of the 17 Sustainable Development Goals, the work of UPOV is a horizontal enabler of the SDGs and addressing our common, global challenges like hunger, climate change and sustainability.

To concretize this, we need to step up our work with other agencies and stakeholders, working in a multi-stakeholder and inclusive manner.

This week, we have heard about the importance of providing farmers with varieties that are resistant to disease, along with the need of UPOV – and its members – to strengthen international cooperation for innovation in this area.

With new technologies emerging, it is also important that we harness them for the good of the world. We have also heard about the importance of image analysis, automated data capture and cutting-edge technologies, including artificial intelligence, in assessing plant varieties.

It is critical that UPOV continues to stay ahead of these trends. The horizon scanning initiative agreed by the Consultative Committee will help guide these efforts and how UPOV should evolve to support continuous advancements in plant breeding.

Pillar 2 focuses on raising awareness, providing training and offering assistance.

Our desire and ability to engage beyond our community of experts and to communicate about the value of our work to a broader audience out there is critical to our continued relevance and success. To do this, we must communicate about the value of our work, sharing stories on how our work has touched the lives of people, through channels that are used by them.

One such story is that of Dr. Mary Mgonja from the United Republic of Tanzania. Her journey in plant breeding started with a dogged determination to build a career in one of agriculture's most challenging fields. Now, her plant breeding venture, Namburi, produces hundreds of tons of maize and sorghum seeds annually, benefiting some 40,000 farmers and leading to the creation of more than 40 demonstration fields across the country. Stories like Dr. Mary's bring our work alive and engage the 99% out there unfamiliar with UPOV and the importance of plant breeding.

On training and support, 16 States have requested legislative assistance this year, bringing the total to 34 over the past two years. This includes 28 countries that are not yet UPOV members – demonstrating growing interest in our work.

Beyond bilateral support, we are also engaging with regional platforms. For example, this year we held a successful regional workshop on PVP for ARIPO, the African Regional Intellectual Property Organization, involving representatives from the 22 ARIPO Member States.

Within countries, we also need to engage with in-country experts. Alongside our regular suite of learning courses, the UPOV PVP Certificate Program launched in April and has been well received. Designed for PVP officials, office staff, examiners and other practitioners, 42 certificates have been issued in just the first 5 months of operation. We greatly appreciate the enthusiastic engagement of members and stakeholders. Looking ahead, we will continue to find new ways of broadening engagement with UPOV and providing your experts and breeders with the skills they need to maximize the potential of PVP.

Pillar 3 is about delivering high-quality services to UPOV Members.

Since its launch last September, UPOV e-PVP, our digital application and administration service, has made significant progress. Twelve authorities, including Brazil, Canada, the EU, Japan, New Zealand, and the United States, have committed to using the DUS Exchange Module, and three – Ghana, the UK, and Viet Nam – have committed to the e-PVP admin service.

As this system facilitates more efficient collaboration – like the recent exchange of seven DUS reports between the Netherlands and Viet Nam – we are confident that engagement will continue to grow, and we are ready to support members and users in this regard.

Additionally, we have seen a 4% increase in applications submitted via UPOV PRISMA and a nearly 40% rise in the number of general service users of our PLUTO database. The value of member and stakeholder engagement in driving these projects forward cannot be overestimated, with these digital tools instrumental in broadening access to PVP and ensuring its benefits reach the grassroots level. While the numbers are a good start, we believe that we can do more to boost the usage of these services, and we will work closely with Members to step up our efforts in this area.

Ultimately, our focus on all of these areas of work is to deliver impact. Plant Variety Protection is not just a technical matter for those steeped in the mysteries of the UPOV system. Rather, UPOV is a vital link in our efforts to address food security, climate change, global health, poverty reduction and other challenges.

Let us therefore work together, in partnership and as the tight UPOV family that is our hallmark to strengthen plant variety protection, deepen UPOV engagement with the world and drive agricultural innovation for the benefit of all.

Thank you.

ANNEX II

INTERVENTION BY MS. VARSİK MARTIROSYAN, HEAD,
DEPARTMENT OF PLANT PRODUCTION, MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE

ON BEHALF OF:
MS. TATEVIK SARGSYAN,
DEPUTY MINISTER, MINISTRY OF AGRICULTURE, ARMENIA,
AT THE FIFTY-EIGHTH ORDINARY SESSION OF THE COUNCIL

Distinguished President,
Ladies and gentlemen,

I am pleased to address you today as Armenia has become the 79th member of the International Union for the Protection of New Varieties of Plants (UPOV). This step serves as testament to Armenia's dedication to advancing its agricultural sector and supporting sustainable economic growth.

By joining UPOV, Armenia not only aligns itself with international standards but also commits to take steps aimed at empowering our breeders, farmers, and entrepreneurs to succeed in a competitive global market. Protecting plant varieties is essential for boosting productivity and ensuring that the plant varieties of scientific research in agriculture are effectively safeguarded. For Armenia, this means unlocking opportunities to cultivate new and improved plant varieties that are resilient, high-yielding, and climate-adaptive, which is imperative for enhancing food security and rural development.

Our membership in UPOV will further encourage foreign investments in Armenian agriculture by providing a robust legal framework for the protection of intellectual property rights in plant breeding. This protection is not only a tool for economic development but also a pathway to more sustainable agricultural practices. It will enable Armenian farmers to access higher-quality seeds, their productivity, and contribute to Armenia's role in enhancing regional food security.

We understand that joining the UPOV not only provides us with big opportunities but also brings significant responsibilities. As we integrate UPOV's principles into our national legislation, we commit to balancing the interests of all stakeholders to ensure that everyone benefits from the progress we make.

In conclusion, I would like to convey Armenia's sincere gratitude to the UPOV community for welcoming us into this esteemed organization. We look forward to work with all our partners to create a future where agricultural innovation thrives, sustainable development is achieved, and our farmers and breeders are empowered to contribute to a more resilient agricultural sector. The Government of Armenia is fully committed to collaborating with all member countries, UPOV Secretariat and other stakeholders in a spirit of unity and partnership, to collectively advance the shared vision of a sustainable and progressive world—one that future generations will benefit from.

Thank you.
